Item 2 - Material Changes

In this section, we describe material changes we have made to our brochure since our most recent annual update, dated March 13, 2026. Since that time, we note:

- We revised Item 4 to disclose that we may engage third-party investment managers (“Sub-Advisers”) to manage all or a portion of a client’s assets, subject to the terms of an executed sub-advisory agreement with the Client.
- We revised Item 5 to reflect the fee update for our financial planning-only services.
- We revised Item 11 to provide disclosure to address the conflict of interest created when advisers recommend the use of margin.

We will provide you with our current brochure at any time, without charge. To request a copy, please contact Dawn A. Hatch, Chief Compliance Officer at 800-696-3267 or dawn.hatch@meanswealth.com. Our Brochure is also available on our website www.meanswealth.com.

Additional information about Means Wealth Management is available on the SEC’s website <http://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>. The SEC’s website provides information about management and investment adviser representatives of Means Wealth Management.

Item 4 - Advisory Business

Means Wealth Management (“Means Wealth”), a Registered Investment Adviser since June 23, 2010, is the business name of Means Investment Company, Inc., which is wholly-owned by its Chairman, Paul B. Means, and President, Zachary P. Means. Means Wealth started doing business in Bangor, Maine as a broker-dealer in 1935. As of March 2019, Means Wealth relinquished the broker-dealer business to focus on providing financial advice solely as a fiduciary.

Business is conducted from the home office located at 802 Stillwater Avenue in Bangor, Maine and at the following branch offices:

- 3 Houlton Road in Presque Isle, Maine;
- 325 Augusta Street in Greenville, South Carolina; and
- 104 Maxwell Avenue in Greenwood, South Carolina.

Investment Advisory Services – Means Wealth provides investment advisory services primarily to individuals through individually managed accounts. Its Investment Adviser Representatives (“advisors”) provide the following:

- Assessment of client investment needs and objectives, tax considerations, and risk tolerance;
- Development of an asset allocation strategy designed to meet each client’s objectives;
- Recommendations on suitable style allocations;
- Identification and evaluation of suitable investments and investment vehicles; and
- Engagement of investment vehicles on behalf of clients.

Once an account is established, Means Wealth provides:

- Ongoing monitoring of performance;
- Review of client accounts to ensure adherence to policy guidelines and asset allocation;
- Market updates and educational materials;
- Account rebalancing when deemed prudent; and
- Reporting of client account performance (net of fees).

Financial planning, included with portfolio management services to ongoing clients, includes, but is not limited to:

- life insurance;
- estate planning;
- tax concerns;
- retirement planning;
- education planning; and
- debt/credit planning.

We evaluate and recommend investments in mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and individual stocks and bonds, typically through model portfolios. Means Wealth can generally accommodate client-requested customizations to its model portfolios. For certain clients, and only when consistent with the client’s stated investment objectives, we may accommodate investment strategies involving additional complexity or risk, such as options. These strategies are not suitable for all clients and are implemented only after considering the client’s overall financial circumstances and account eligibility. For some client accounts, investments may be limited to a single investment fund sponsor.

We may recommend that a third-party investment manager (“Sub-Adviser”) manage all or a portion of a client’s assets. Before engagement, we conduct due diligence and periodically review the Sub-Adviser’s investment performance, operational capabilities, and regulatory status. When a Sub-Adviser is engaged, the Sub-Adviser will have discretionary authority to manage the assets allocated to it in accordance with the client’s investment objectives and the terms of the applicable agreements. Clients will enter into a separate sub-advisory agreement governing the relationship and services provided by the Sub-Adviser.

As part of our financial planning and advisory services, we can provide recommendations regarding assets that are not managed by Means Wealth and over which we do not have discretionary authority, including employer-sponsored retirement plans and accounts held at other financial institutions. Because these assets are not under our management, we do not have the authority to execute transactions or implement recommendations on your behalf. Any recommendations provided are for your consideration, and you are solely responsible for determining whether and how to implement them. These assets are not included in our ongoing portfolio management services and are not subject to continuous monitoring. Recommendations regarding such assets are generally provided in connection with financial planning or other advisory discussions and are based on information available at the time the advice is rendered.

When we provide investment advice regarding retirement plan accounts or individual retirement accounts, including rollover recommendations, we act as fiduciaries under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable. We are required to act in our clients' best interest and not place our interests ahead of theirs. Although our compensation may create conflicts of interest, we seek to appropriately identify and manage those conflicts and do not make misleading statements in connection with our advisory recommendations, including recommendations related to retirement rollovers.

Financial Planning Services – Means Wealth offers financial planning-only services on a limited basis to clients. This service includes an initial review meeting, analysis and financial plan development, customized recommendations, and an annual financial plan review.

Exit Planning Services - The Firm offers exit planning services to business-owner clients. These services may be provided on a standalone basis or to clients of the Firm's investment advisory services; however, exit planning services are always provided pursuant to a separate written engagement agreement that defines the scope of services, deliverables, and fees. Exit planning is a non-discretionary, consultative process designed to assist clients in evaluating business transition considerations and aligning business, personal, and financial objectives. Services may include assessing exit readiness, identifying planning gaps, developing an action plan and timeline, coordinating with the client's other professional advisers, and integrating exit planning considerations with the client's overall financial planning and/or investment strategy, as applicable. The Firm's exit planning services are limited to advice and planning only; the Firm does not provide legal or tax advice, perform formal business valuations, act as an investment banker, business broker, or intermediary, or receive transaction-based compensation in connection with a business sale unless specifically disclosed.

Qualified Plan Services – Means Wealth's advisors serve as Investment Professionals to Qualified Employer Retirement Plans (401(k), 403(b), etc.) for a negotiated fee.

Investment Club – We provide nondiscretionary investment advice to an investment club. We make investment recommendations to the investment club, whose investment decisions are made by its securities committee, and place the trades the investment club decides to make.

As of December 31, 2025, we managed a total of $1,594,606,299 assets which includes $1,417,050,432 in discretionary assets and $177,555,867 in non-discretionary assets.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Investment Advisory Services

Means Wealth is a fee-only investment advisor. Advisory Fees for Fidelity Brokerage Services, LLC (Fidelity) accounts and American Funds Service Company (American Funds) 529 accounts indirectly billed to a Fidelity account are marginalized, paid monthly in arrears, and prorated if necessary. Fees for American Funds accounts directly billed to their respective accounts are not marginalized and are paid quarterly in arrears. Fees are based on the average of the daily balance of account assets during the billing period.

Advisory fees are deducted directly from the client account. If there is insufficient cash in an account at the time the Advisory Fee is to be paid, the client understands and acknowledges that we can sell account assets to generate sufficient cash to make payment. This can create a taxable gain or tax loss for the client. If assets are illiquid and we determine a sale is not feasible or the account otherwise cannot be withdrawn automatically, the client may be invoiced for the period. The client agrees to pay this invoice within ten (10) days of receipt. Clients with multiple accounts can designate a single account to be billed for the Advisory Fee for multiple accounts. Clients can request to be invoiced for investment advisory fees. The client Agreement can be terminated upon thirty (30) day notice by either party. If a client Agreement is terminated and all account assets are withdrawn from the Account prior to the end of a billing period, the Advisory Fee will be pro-rated.

The annual fee schedule for Investment Advisory Services is as follows:

Donor-Advised Funds and 529 Accounts: 0.75%

All other accounts:

Assets Under Management	Annual Fee
First $100,000	2.00%
$100,001 - $500,000	1.60%
$500,001 - $1,000,000	1.25%
Over $1,000,000	1.00%

The amount of a client's account assets affects our advisory fee; the more assets the client has in their account(s), the more the client will pay in advisory fees and thus we have an incentive to increase those assets to increase our fee. However, if a client is on our tiered fee schedule, as the assets increase in their account(s), their fee percentage for each tier of assets decreases.

Means Wealth, in its discretion, can charge higher or lower investment advisory fees, charge a flat fee, or charge a fee on a different interval, based upon certain criteria (i.e., anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, complexity of the engagement, grandfathered fee schedules, employees and family members, courtesy accounts, negotiation with clients, etc.). As a result of the above, similarly situated clients could pay different fees. Clients may receive comparable services from other sources at different fee rates.

Financial planning services are provided to ongoing clients as a part of portfolio management services.

Accounts in the same household generally receive the benefit of aggregating assets to reach fee breakpoints. Means Wealth reserves the right to negotiate investment management fee arrangements with prospective and existing clients, make exceptions to its standard fee schedule on a case-by-case basis at its discretion, and to charge a minimum annual fee for providing Investment Advisory Services of up to $5,000. Non-discretionary accounts and qualified charitable organizations often pay a lower fee. We provide advisory services to an investment club for a discounted fee.

We do not charge transaction fees, commissions, markups, or custodial fees. Some investments (e.g., mutual funds, etc.) carry additional expenses that reduce the return on the investment over time. When screening mutual funds, we only recommend "no-load" or load-waived funds, and do not accept any fees from the funds or their sponsors.

Any fees charged by a Sub-Adviser will be disclosed to the client via a sub-advisory agreement and will be in addition to the advisory fees charged by Means Wealth.

Financial Planning-Only Services

As disclosed in Item 4 – Advisory Business, Means Wealth offers financial planning-only services to clients. The standard fee for this service is set forth below; however, Means Wealth may, in its discretion, waive, reduce, or otherwise adjust the fee or scope of the services on a case-by-case basis. Clients receiving financial planning-only services will enter into a written financial planning agreement that describes the relationship and services to be provided, the fee terms, and the terms of the relationship with Means Wealth.

Financial Planning-Only Annual Fee: $15,000

Exit Planning Services

As disclosed in Item 4 – Advisory Business, Means Wealth offers exit planning services to business-owner clients. Exit planning fees are separate from and in addition to any fees charged for ongoing investment management or financial planning services and are defined in a separate written engagement agreement.

The Firm offers exit planning services pursuant to a separate standalone engagement agreement and charges a fixed, project-based planning fee agreed to in advance. Exit planning fees typically range from approximately $15,000 to $50,000, depending on the scope and complexity of the engagement. In determining the fixed planning fee, the Firm considers factors such as the size and complexity of the client's business, ownership and entity structure, the anticipated scope of planning services, the extent of coordination with other professional advisers, and the expected duration of the engagement. Exit planning fees are not contingent on the completion of any transaction, the timing of a business transition, or the value of any business sale.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not charge any performance-based fees (those based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client). Therefore, we do not have a conflict of interest in managing accounts side-by-side with performance-based fee accounts.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

We provide portfolio management services to individuals, high net worth individuals, trusts, estates, non-profit organizations, corporations and other business entities. Our minimum household relationship size is $1,000,000, which is waived at our discretion.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Means Wealth utilizes model portfolios based upon investment objectives and risk tolerances. An advisor, after evaluating a client's demographic, financial and other information, will customize the client's investments, as necessary. Portfolio construction requires consideration of asset allocation, position weightings, diversification and other factors. The client's investment objective will result in an investment strategy designed for aggressive growth, growth, moderate growth, balanced, conservative or preservation of capital. Both active and passive (index-based) management styles can be used.

Changes in a client's investment profile can warrant significant alteration of a portfolio's holdings. Means Wealth requests that clients inform their advisor, in writing on a timely basis, of any material changes in client's financial situation and/or investment objectives which can justify a change. Because of client customization, an investment change is not always made consistently throughout all portfolios with the same investment objective. In all instances, the advisor has an obligation to act in the best interests of the client.

Our standard models are developed with asset weightings based on market and index compositions. We use commercially available analytical tools and optimization software applications to ensure that our model portfolios accurately reflect the market weights and investment styles of our selected indices. As part of that process, we employ research tools to evaluate investment products, such as mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETFs). Key factors analyzed include historical performance, investment philosophy, investment style, and risk-weighted return characteristics.

Our Investment and Planning Council consists of the President, CEO, and Portfolio Manager, along with other key decision-makers within the firm. The Council is supported by internal and external resources.

Exit planning recommendations are based on information provided by the client and, where applicable, third-party professionals. Exit planning is inherently forward-looking and may involve assumptions regarding business performance, market conditions, tax law, and timing. No strategy can eliminate risk, and outcomes may differ materially from projections. Clients should consider risks and consult qualified professionals before implementing any recommendations.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to one's evaluation of Means Wealth. Means Wealth has no such legal or disciplinary information to disclose. None of our personnel have had any securities regulator impose sanctions against them.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

The disclosures required under this item are not applicable to Means Wealth or its management persons.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics

Means Wealth has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons describing its standard of business conduct and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to compliance with laws, safeguarding material non-public information, personal securities ownership and transactions, initial public offerings and limited or private offerings, and other potential conflicts of interest to which Means Wealth or its employees may be subjected. All persons covered by the Code must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or when amended. A copy of the Code of Ethics is available upon request.

Conflicts of Interest:

Means Wealth offers its advisors compensation based on their assets under management. This provides an incentive for the advisors to seek to retain additional assets from clients. This conflict is mitigated by the advisors' adherence to the firm's guidelines for account recommendations and periodic review of accounts to ensure the appropriateness of account recommendations. In addition, Means Wealth licensed employees have the ability to earn a bonus for net new money deposits. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on behalf of Means Wealth have an incentive to recommend adding additional assets for the purpose of receiving incentive compensation rather than solely based on the clients' needs. Means Wealth mitigates this conflict through adoption of compliance policies and procedures requiring employees at all times to put the interest of our clients first as part of our fiduciary duty as a registered investment adviser, including, but not limited to, disclosing the existence of all material conflicts of interest, obtaining clients' informed consent, and prohibiting Means Wealth and its employees from favoring one client over another. Additionally, clients of Means Wealth are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to add additional assets under Means Wealth's management.

Means Wealth can recommend the use of margin. Should a client determine to use margin, Means Wealth includes the market value of the margined assets when computing its advisory fee. This creates a conflict of interest (because advisors have an economic incentive to recommend that the client utilize and/or continue to utilize margin due to greater advisory fees earned on the higher margined account value). Please Note: The leverage created by using margin can cause amplified and significant adverse financial consequences in the event of a market correction.

Our employees can purchase or sell securities that are recommended to, or purchased or sold for, clients. Employees can also hold securities with different risk parameters and returns than clients. Personal securities transactions by our employees are subject to our Code of Ethics which requires our employees at all times to act in our clients' best interests and to avoid even the appearance of conflicts of interest. The Code of Ethics includes various reporting, disclosure, and approval requirements. Means Wealth designed these requirements to prevent or mitigate actual or potential conflicts of interest with clients.

One or more of our firm's licensed employees is a member or owner of a real estate investment vehicle in which a client may also be invested in. Clients are not solicited to invest in these vehicles. In addition, any licensed employee who chooses to participate in such an investment is required by our Code of Ethics to obtain compliance approval for the investment.

One or more of our firm's employees are part of a charitable organization, outside investment-related business or investment-related club in which the charitable organization, business or club is also a client of the firm. Supervised persons are required to obtain prior firm approval before engaging in any outside business activity.

The firm and its employees are permitted to make charitable contributions to non-profit organizations, including those that are clients of the firm or that may have other relationships with the charitable organization or its employees. The clients to which charitable contributions are made may also participate in events hosted by Means Wealth. Our Code of Ethics requires disclosure of such charitable contributions to the CCO for review.

Our firm permits its employees to serve as trustee for certain client trust accounts and as personal representatives for certain client estates under specific conditions. Means Wealth mitigates this conflict through adoption of compliance policies and procedures requiring employees at all times to put the interest of our clients first as part of our fiduciary duty as a registered investment adviser, including, but not limited to, disclosing the existence of all material conflicts of interest and prohibiting Means Wealth and its employees from favoring one client over another.

In the course of providing exit planning services, the firm may ultimately manage client assets from the liquidity event. Therefore, the exit planning employee has an incentive to recommend strategies that could increase assets under management. The firm seeks to address this conflict through disclosure, documentation of recommendations, and by encouraging clients to consult independent tax and legal professionals before implementing material decisions.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

Means Wealth uses Fidelity and American Funds as custodians and executing brokers. The custody and brokerage fees charged by other broker-dealers or custodians may be higher or lower than the fees charged by these custodians. The firm decided to use these custodians based on a comparison of their services and fees against other broker-dealers (including past experiences we have had with other broker-dealers) and is aimed at minimizing brokerage expenses and other costs while taking into account the offerings or services these custodians provide that the firm or clients may require or find valuable. Means Wealth does not receive any credits known as "soft dollars" from our brokerage firms.

Each client must authorize us to designate Fidelity and/or American Funds to provide trade execution and custodial services with respect to their account. Services provided by the designated custodian in this capacity are governed by a separate agreement between client and the custodian. Not all registered investment advisers require clients to direct brokerage services. By authorizing us to direct brokerage, a client may not always receive the benefit of the lowest trade price then available for any particular transaction. While direct brokerage offers certain advantages such as convenience and potentially lower costs, trade execution prices can vary based on numerous factors including market conditions, order size, timing of execution, and liquidity of the securities being traded. As a result, it's possible that direct brokerage may not always obtain the most favorable trade price available in the market at any given time. Custodians do not provide investment advice or investment advisory services in connection with this agreement.

At the sole discretion of Means Wealth, aggregate purchases or sales of the same security (including ETFs) may be transacted on the same day for multiple accounts of one or more of our clients. Batch transactions will be executed only when we believe that to do so will be in the best interest of the accounts. When trades are not aggregated, the trades may result in a higher security price than if aggregated.

In the normal course of trading, errors may occasionally occur, such as entering an incorrect security, share amount, or duplicating a trade. If an error is identified, we take prompt and appropriate action to address it. We are not responsible for the actions or inactions of any broker-dealer or bank, or for any resulting losses from their actions or inactions.

Means Wealth does not file claims in class action securities proceedings on behalf of clients. Means Wealth utilizes Chicago Clearing litigation services to automatically file such claims on behalf of clients. For this service Chicago Clearing retains a 17.5% fee of any proceeds recovered. Balance of payments will be paid to the client. Means Wealth receives no compensation for facilitating this arrangement. While we feel this arrangement is in clients' best interests, clients have the ability to opt out of such arrangement by notifying us in writing.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts and Reporting

Accounts are reviewed in a number of ways throughout the year. Our Investment and Planning Council meets regularly to discuss general market conditions, review model composition and weightings, identify tax planning opportunities related to individual securities, ETFs, mutual funds, and specific sleeves within client portfolios.

Additional reviews are driven by events such as deposits to or withdrawals from accounts. We also conduct reviews during our cash level, required minimum distribution and capital gain and loss checks. The advisor reviews accounts in preparation for client meetings and will consider any change to the client's financial profile, investment objectives, goals or cash flow needs identified during client interactions to determine if a recommended change to the client's financial strategy is needed. We also advise our clients on their responsibility to keep us informed of any changes to their financial situation.

We provide quarterly written performance reporting (net of fees) for Fidelity accounts and American Funds accounts indirectly billed to a Fidelity account, through a service provided by Orion Advisor Solutions, Inc. (Orion) consistent with industry standards. This report also contains the advisor's fee calculation for the applicable time period. We can also provide through Orion certain additional detailed account information electronically on a periodic basis.

Clients also receive a periodic statement providing a detailed list of holdings with valuations and account activity directly from the custodian (monthly for Fidelity accounts and quarterly for American Fund accounts). Additionally, the Custodians will make available, generally updated on a daily basis (dependent on successful reconciliation with the Custodian's records), the following information for each client account: (i) account holdings and performance information, (ii) account transactions, (iii) contributions and withdrawals, and (iv) current market value of the account.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We do not receive compensation or other economic benefit from anyone that is not a client for providing client services.

From time to time, clients require services that are outside the scope of the investment services provided by our firm (e.g., legal counsel, accounting, or insurance advice) and ask us for a referral. We can refer our clients to third parties, including persons or entities that provide professional services directly to our firm. These providers may also refer clients to us when their clients need the types of services we provide. We do not receive compensation for such referrals. Clients have no obligation to engage the services of any such introduced professionals. Although we may have experience with these service providers, we have not performed due diligence on these service providers and are not responsible for the services provided by these service providers.

Item 15 - Custody

All clients have access to their portfolio holdings and activity on a continuous basis by logging into their qualified custodial accounts via secure login and password. In addition, the qualified custodian of each client account sends quarterly, or more frequent, account statements directly to the client. We urge all of our clients to carefully review such custodian statements and compare them with the account statements or other information received or made available to them through us or any other outside vendor.

We have custody of client accounts when we have the authority to debit client fees. Clients whose fees are debited receive account statements from their custodian showing the fee debit and are encouraged to review those statements to verify the accuracy of the fees.

We have custody of client accounts when we have the authority, through standing letters of authorization (“SLOAs”) to direct the client account custodian to implement transfers to third parties. We rely on SEC no-action relief from obtaining a custody audit for SLOAs.

Our firm permits employees to serve as trustee for certain client trust accounts and as personal representative for clients’ estates under certain conditions. Custody is not imputed to our firm because the trustee appointments are personal rather than arising from the advisory services we provide to clients.

We provide nondiscretionary investment advice to an investment club, and place trades authorized by the investment club, but do not have the authority to withdraw funds from the investment club and thus do not have custody of the investment club’s assets.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

Means Wealth asks that Advisory clients grant full discretionary investment authority to Means Wealth to invest, reinvest, sell, exchange and otherwise deal with assets in their accounts, including without limitation the authority to select, allocate and reallocate the assets in client accounts. Each account is managed on the basis of the client’s individual financial situation. Means Wealth can accommodate most client requested customizations to its model portfolios and can waive this discretion.

Exit planning engagements do not include investment discretion. The Firm provides advice and planning; the client retains decision-making authority.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, Means Wealth advisors do not have any authority to and do not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for securities maintained in their portfolios. Means Wealth's licensed employees can provide advice to Clients regarding the Clients' voting of proxies.

While it is Means Wealth's policy not to vote proxies on behalf of our clients, sub-advisers may vote proxies on behalf of clients based on the sub-adviser agreement.

Item 18 - Financial Information

Means Wealth has no financial commitment that impairs our ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients. We have never been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of each supervised person providing investment advice. Neither our firm nor any of its financial professionals have any such events.

Additional Compensation

Means Wealth licensed employees have the ability to earn a bonus for net new money deposits. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on behalf of Means Wealth have an incentive to recommend adding additional assets for the purpose of receiving incentive compensation rather than solely based on the clients' needs. Means Wealth mitigates this conflict through adoption of compliance policies and procedures requiring employees at all times to put the interest of our clients first as part of our fiduciary duty as a registered investment adviser, including, but not limited to, disclosing the existence of all material conflicts of interest, obtaining client's informed consent, and prohibiting Means Wealth and its employees from favoring one client over another. Additionally, clients of Means Wealth are under no obligation to, contractually or otherwise, add additional assets under Means Wealth's management.

Supervision

Supervision is provided through the firm's Written Policies and Procedures, Code of Ethics, and Privacy Policy which have been reasonably designed to supervise the firm and adhere to any and all applicable federal and state securities laws, statutes, rules, and regulations.
